About Amazon Frontlines, Ceibo Alliance, and the Give Clearwater project:

Give Clearwater (www.giveclearwater.org) began in 2011 as a project run by a small team of US citizens in Ecuador to provide clean drinking water to indigenous families affected by oil contamination in the Amazon region via family-sized rainwater catchment systems. Give ClearWater was legally formed as a US 501c3 organization in 2015. As the project began to scale and brought people from different indigenous cultures together, the scope of work expanded to include indigenous cultural revitalization, women’s empowerment, solar energy, and the protection of the Amazon rainforest.

In 2018, the name of the US 501c3 organization was legally changed from Give Clearwater to Amazon Frontlines (www.amazonfrontlines.org) to reflect the expanded scope of work. The Ecuadorian non-profit Ceibo Alliance (www.alianzaceibo.org) was legally formed in 2014 as the indigenous-led local partner organization.

Both the Give Clearwater project and Ceibo Alliance are fiscally sponsored by Amazon Fronlines.
